

AIC International Representatives

UNESCO (Paris)

Isabelle Chaperon

- Isabelle is French and has an Engineering degree in Ocean Engineering and a Master's in Science from Stanford University in Petroleum Engineering. She worked for Total for 10 years. She currently lives in Brussels and Paris and speaks French and English.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 2007, as President of a group in Paris, then Project Leader in charge of literacy for AIC-France, and a representative at UNESCO since 2016.
- Her current role at UNESCO is working in the steering committee of the International Day of the Girl Child (17th October 2018), and its follow-up, and monitoring issues related to Education, Women and Africa. She takes an active part in CCIC/UNESCO, the Catholic think tank for advocacy to UNESCO, is a board member thereof, and takes part in the International Forum of Catholic INGOs.

Marie-Claude Dumont

- Marie-Claude is French and has a degree in Economics from the Sorbonne in Paris and a professional experience in retail sales. She currently lives in Paris and speaks French and English.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 2004 and a President of an AIC group in Paris for six years.
- Her current role is that of representative at UNESCO.

Laurence de la Brosse

- Laurence is French. She graduated with a Law degree. She lives in Paris and speaks French, English, and Spanish.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 1980 as member of a local AIC group. Laurence has since gone through every stage of responsibility from local, regional, national and then AIC International President from 2009 to 2015.
- She is currently a member of the AIC team of representatives at UNESCO, (September 2018).

Nathalie Boone

- Natalie is American. She is retired from work in clinical microbiology and infection control. She lives on Long Island, outside of New York City. She speaks English and understands a bit of French and Italian.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 2009 as a founding member of an Association at St. John's University in New York. She has served in many capacities in her local association including a term as President and was elected to the National Board of AIC-USA for a three-year term as a regional director beginning in 2019.
- Since 2010, she has represented AIC at the United Nations in New York where she is active in social development, the status of women and ending homelessness. Since 2015, the AIC UN team has joined with the other Vincentian Family members at the UN in collaboration.

Margret Cashin

- Marge is American. She is retired from St. John's University after 28 years as an administrator for various departments, the last being the Office of Community Relations. She has a Master's Degree in Sociology and lives in Queens, NY. Her primary language is English with a rudimentary knowledge of Spanish.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 2009, as a charter member of the St. John's chapter and has served in several capacities, including President of the local chapter. Since 2015, she has been serving as an alternate AIC representative at the United Nations in New York where she attends sessions about social development, the status of women and ending homelessness. Since 2015, the AIC UN team has been collaborating with other Vincentian Family members at the UN, with a current focus on effectively and efficiently compiling data and a count the number of street homeless persons on a global level.

Mary Ann Dantuono

- Mary Ann Dantuono is a citizen of the United States of America and holds a degree in Law from St. John's University in New York. She currently lives in East Williston, New York with her husband and speaks English.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 2009 when she was a founding member of the Ladies of Charity Association at St. John's University in New York. She is a Past-President of AIC-USA (2015-2016) where she has served on the Board since 2010.
- Mary Ann was elected to the Executive Board of AIC International for a three-year term in 2017. As NGO representative for AIC she attends to issues of social development, eradication of the feminization of poverty, and the special needs of migrant and homeless women. The Vincentian Family at the UN in New York is collaborating to end homelessness. In addition to representing AIC, she also serves as an expert on Women for the Holy See Mission to the United Nations in New York.

Laurence de la Brosse

- Laurence is French. She graduated with a Law degree. She lives in Paris and speaks French, English, and Spanish.
- She has been an AIC volunteer since 1980 as member of a local AIC group. Laurence has since gone through every stage of responsibility from local, regional, national and then AIC International President from 2009 to 2015.
- Since May 2019, she has been AIC representative within the Executive Board of the CRESCENDO network.

The work

Crescendo is a worldwide network whose major concern is to foster a humanist and Christian approach which values the development of the ageing, respecting their dignity and their spiritual wealth.